LATE EASTERN NEWS

By Overland Mail

Washington Dispatches to the Chicago Tribune

[illegible]

WASHINGTON Dec 9 It is understood that every member of the Cabinet condemns that portion of the President's message favoring repudiation

MAIL DELAYED

The Western mails are now sixty hours behind time All the roads in this vicinity are clear

THE STOLEN MESSAGE

The only copies of the message given out from the White House last night to any private parties were placed in the hands of a special messenger of Brick Pomeroy's Democrat. The other copies for the press of the country were sent from the White House under seal and pledges. The New York papers were to open the package at 11 o'clock this morning Brick Pomeroy's messenger offered the use of his copy to parties here for a consideration After completing these negotiations, he left at 8 00 for New York and issued the document in full shortly after daylight. The city papers here received copies at eleven this morning.

REVENUE SUPERVISOR APPOINTED.

General Thomas Young, of Cincinnati, was to day nominated by Commissioner Rollins as Supervisor of the Southern District of Ohio. The nomination was made with the understanding that it would be immediately confirmed. The Secretary had not acted on it at the time the department closed

ANDREW JOHNSON'S LAST

The country may properly congratulate itself upon having got the last of Andrew Johnson's annual message It is such a document as was never before sent to Congress, and it received such treatment as no other message ever received The indignation it excited at the Capitol was something with which the people cannot help sympathizing, and the condemnation poured upon the head of the bad man, whose name it bears, will doubtless be echoed from one end of the land to the other.

THE MESSAGE IN THE SENATE.

The Senate received the message from the President's private secretary at exactly one o'clock There were not many persons in the galleries, for the populace expected a scene at the other end of the Capitol. The Clerk began its reading just as the printed copies were distributed among the Senators He had read about ten minutes not having reached the atrocious paragraph in which the President advocates repudiation through the non payment of interest on our bonds, when Mr. Conness arose and indignantly moved to dispense with the further reading of the document The wrath and contempt of Senators had gradually been rising One could see easily enough from the galleries The proposition to quit reading was, however no less novel than astounding, and at first a decided majority of the Senators seemed opposed to such severe treatment of the document Garrett Davis caught at his breath, and managed to say that the motion was most extraordinary "Yes," responded Conness, "and the message is most extraordinary, such a one as no other President ever sent to Congress!" Warming to his subject, he went on to say that it was a tirade of abuse, an indecent attack upon Congress a tissue of malignant falsehoods. This language caused a decided sensation Several Senators rose to speak. Two or three appealed to Mr. Conness to withdraw his motion Others urged him to press it to a vote, and there was some confusion Vice President Wade called for a vote on the motion to stop the reading, and on the viva voce answer, declared that it was carried Mr Davis and others wanted a yea and nay vote, and so that was ordered Meantime there had been some private consultation, and, as its result Conness said he was willing to withdraw the motion if it was thought best Mr. Cameron replied that he would at once renew it, and so it was not withdrawn Mr Howe said the message was indecent in its character. The Constitution does not give the President any right to send us such a message, nor does it impose upon us the duty of listening to such a message. Messrs. Morton and Wilson concurred in pronouncing it full of misrepresentations, but thought the Senate had better have it read through. Mr. Cameron characterized it as unfit to go on the Senate Journal, and wanted it thrown upon the table at once Governor Morton reminded the Senate that the President had the right to communicate his views in his own way, adding that he himself thought the message as bad a one as it could be. Mr Wilson spoke of it as the ravings of a bad, disappointed man Mr Drake characterized it as the last kick of a defeated Executive, which it was not worth while to mind A majority of the Senate seemed to think otherwise for when at this point Mr. Edmunds moved an adjournment, it was carried without division Thus the Senate, outraged beyond restraint, refused for the first time in its life to hear a message from the White House While there was some division of opinion among Republicans as to the propriety of allowing it to be read, there was none in condemnation of its doctrines or in the protest against its wicked plea for the late rebellion.

IN THE HOUSE

The House took the reading of the message very quietly The men's gallery was crowded, though evidently not so much to hear the document read as to see how it was received by the Representatives Clerk McPherson seemed impressed with the gravity of his mission, and read the pages in a loud and clear voice, easily filling the chamber Very few members paid any attention to him, however Many of them left the floor, others wrote letters, several read newspapers Little knots gathered for laughter and conversation, and there was a buzz of small talk throughout the hall As the Clerk neared the last line several members rose. Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, got the floor, and in a few grave, measured words, denounced the message for its repudiation doctrines, speaking of the document as disgraceful in the extreme Fernando Wood that pink of propriety, called him to order holding that he had no right to use the word disgraceful in connection with any message from the President. The Speaker ruled, of course, that any member had a right to speak of it as he pleased, so long as he kept within the bounds of decorum Messrs Wood, Randall and Eldridge all tried to speak at once, all evidently meaning to raise further points of order Mr Washburne refused to yield the floor, and the Speaker was obliged to sharply rap them to order, and direct them to take their seats Mr Broomall wanted the floor to offer a resolution against repudiation in any form, and Mr Washburne yielded These three Democrats, and others, at once jumped to their feet, and, with a good deal of confusion, got in a point of order that Mr Broomall, at this juncture, could not have his resolution read by the Clerk "Very well," said Mr Broomall, "I will read it myself, as a part of my remarks," and so he did walking to the Clerk's desk, and reading it from where Thad Stevens stood in late years to make his speeches Mr Schenck then of the [illegible] who wanted it, got the floor by permission of Mr Washburne, and, for the Ways and Means Committee denounced the message as the most gross shameful and infamous document ever emanating from a public officer He compared it to the Oregon resolutions which the House refused, yesterday, to enter upon its journal, saying it was like them impertinent, scandalous, and entirely unfit to be presented Half a dozen members of the opposition tried to speak but the House refused to hear any apology or justification, and then under the lead of Messrs Washburne and Schenck, by a vote of 128 to 18, flung the message upon the table to lie there, with other dead things, as Mr Higby of California, said As if this great proceeding was not enough, it next refused to let the message be printed for general circulation, and also refused to refer it in the ordinary way to the appropriate committees for examination This action of the two branches of Congress thus recorded, is the theme of conversation in all circles to night The general judgment seems to be that so far as the President is concerned he was served just right, though some persons regret that the Senate and House could find no other way of expressing their indignation

Rev Robert Collyer of Chicago in his Thanksgiving sermon pronounced a ten hand eulogy upon General Grant, "He has the [illegible] to do his duty, the courage to [illegible] well the modesty to say nothing about it when it is done, and the humility to go back to the leather business if the nation thinks he can take no other."

The Offices to be Given Away

There are fifty thousand offices to be given out valued at thirty millions [illegible] there [illegible] it will be impossible for General Grant to fill them all unless his friends help him

Take the State Department. If you like you can be a Territorial Governor A thing easier The Governor gets from $1 00 to $2 500 but his secretary receives a trifle more Are you a lawyer Well! there are three commissionerships to revise the United States statutes worth $5 000 apiece You can be consular clerk any one of a [illegible] at $1 000 and go abroad There are seven marshals to Consular Courts at $1 000 apiece and fees There are three hundred and seventy one consulates and ministerships How would you like one of these? Say you occupy the Spanish Mission at $12 000? Then if you have a weak back from too much exertion in getting the place, Spanish flies will be cheap and plasters powerful Lisbon is worth $7 500 and you might see an earthquake for nothing France climbs to the dazzling figure of $1[illegible] 000 and if you are a drinking man there is plenty of [illegible] in Paris since the virtuous Queen of Spain legitimately anointed with the best olive oil arrived there with her last comfort, Marfori. He sticketh closer than a brother. They are to open a saloon there, she will supply the Bourbon and he the lunch! Terrapin always on the table. Give us a call.

Prussia is worth $12,000 also, and you can go to the Orpheum—pronounced Or Fame—where the Prussian demi monde dances The price of admission is only one thaler, or seventy cents, so that out of your salary you could go sixteen thousand times a year I don't know how this could be done, as there are only 365 nights in a year, but I think I could fix it by going six times a night The Orpheum is a naughty place Poor Mr Norman Judd used to go there when he was Minister There was a member of his family who was grieved to see the young Americans wasting their time and money on such frivolous places One day, out of her soul, she said to three friends of mine

"What do you young men come to Berlin for? Is it for pleasure, merely? Is it for study, or luxury, or Fame?"

"Echo answers Orpheum, Madam!" said one of the three.

Switzerland is worth $7,500. The American Minister there feeds the bears with gingerbread and keeps the fierce Swiss from invading America He earns his salt and throws the pepper in!

China is the greatest place, I advise you to apply for that. You can stay as long as you like for $12,000 a year and then go over teacup and spoons to the Emperor of China, who will give you a troupe and set you up in the show business. Ross Browne is there now He spends his whole salary but gets rich by writing for Harper's at five dollars a page Fame is indeed dear and comfortable It makes you admirers and they come and dine with you

Among the Consulates, Liverpool, London and Havre always go a begging at $7,500 There is some little rush for St. Helena, owing to the marked resemblance of every applicant to Napoleon Bonaparte, this pays $1,500, but the British Government refuses to take American Bonapartes. Montreal is worth $1,000, Quebec, $1,500; Halifax, $2,000 Fenians have the best chance for the places Calcutta is worth $5,000, and beautiful yellow fevers are taken there in fees. Paris is worth $5,000 much in request by clergymen, because of the spiritual opportunities of the city Marseilles and Bordeaux stand at $2,500 apiece Nobody wants these, because of the cheapness of wine and living there Madrid is worth $1,800, and none of the other Spanish Consulates more than $1,500, but nobody wants these at all since there is a probability of republican advancement there If any of your readers would like one of these places, a letter sent to Gen. Grant will "fetch" it by return post No postal stamps required, as General Grant has the franking privilege. You might ask him if he couldn't give you the Consulate, to express you some franks and stationery

Havana is worth $6,000. An honorable discharge under Lopez or General Walker is sure to get this position at this time. St Thomas is valued at $7 000—next after Havana. A silent man is wanted there, as owing to the hurricanes, a wind bag might find opposition Frankfort on the Main is worth $3 000 Berlin only fees $2,500, Vienna Consulate, $1,500 Trieste $2 000, Munich, $1,000, Brussels, $2,500; Bremen, $3 000, Hamburg, $2 000 All the leading Italian places rate at $1,500, except Venice, hard to get at $750 Pekin is worth $5,000. Tea is quite good there and nobody wants it. A drunken son-in law might be sent there; specify the fact when you ask for the place, and no further recommendation is needed Constantinople stands at $3,000 There is nothing to do there but to take baths and smoke tobacco, consequently it is hard to get any person to accept the sinecure A widower might be induced to go, because of the constancy of the Turks to the memory of their lost idols In Bombay there are Tangiers, Tripoli, and Tunis, at $3 000 apiece Alexandria pays $3,500 Jerusalem, $1,500, Monrovia in Liberia, $4,000 Shanghai and Canton, $4 000, Foo-Chow and Swatow, $3 500 Honolulu. $4,000—family all ready waiting for the Consul, Mexico City $1,800, Vera Cruz, $3,500, Acapulco, $2,000, Panama, $3,500 Aspinwall, $2 500, Rio Janeiro, $6,000, Valparaiso, $3 000 Callao, $3 500 I give the proper salaries of these Consulates that you may take your pick

N B —To insure a certain appointment, refer General Grant to the following persons, who will take pleasure in endorsing you

General McClernand, Illinois, General McCook, Ohio, Ignatius Donnelly, Minnesota, Mr McCracken (Seward's correspondent), care of Mr. J L Motley, Harvard University, Don Carlos Buell, and Wendell Phillips.

Sincerely, G. A. T.

The French Empire Becomes Desperate

In 1828 the Bourbon monarchy in France, when lampooned by the press, tried to make up in passion what it lacked in strength, and not only fined the greatest poet of the nation Beranger a large part of his fortune, but shut him up for months in the jail built for thieves His crime was a poem in which he spoke with some contempt of "the infinitely little," this phrase being judicially interpreted by the court which tried him to mean the brains and heart of King Charles the Tenth

Within eighteen months after the prosecution of Beranger, the Bourbon monarchy was driven from France The men against whom no paper dared to print a word in 1829 became the laughing stock of France in 1830 They undertook to edit the press of a kingdom, and within a few months fell so low that no journal of large circulation could be employed to print their defense against scandalous libels "The infinitely little" could not long keep itself free from comment Napoleon III is evidently pursuing the same course or if he is personally too sick to control the government as the London papers say, or too stupid from excessive smoking as M de Cassagnac says, the same course is at least pursued in his name Five of the Paris papers were on Saturday condemned to heavy fines and one editor to imprisonment for two months, their crime being the publication of subscription lists for the erection of a monument to Baudin a deputy whom the tools of the President Louis Bonaparte murdered in 1851 for his devotion to the constitution of the French republic None of these papers have alluded even remotely to "the infinitely little" yet their punishment could hardly have been more severe had they reprinted Beranger's song Whether it is his excessive use of tobacco that has stupefied the Emperor or a general decay of his powers the result of other vices it is certain that this treatment of the press is very different from that which he in his stronger days, believed to be politic It can hardly fail to hasten the time which public opinion in Europe regards as not now very distant when the second French empire shall take its place with the Bourbon kingdoms of Spain and Italy among the degradations which great nations remember with horror and turn away from with hope and when Louis Napoleon Bonaparte shall be classed even by the official text books of history taught in the schools of France with Nero and Caligula —N Y Post

The Final Proclamation of Amnesty

The Democrats [illegible] ought now to be at rest. A full pardon, so far as the Executive has power to pardon, has been granted to the few remaining rebels who were not included in former proclamations of amnesty. Jeff. Davis and Breckinridge are at last relieved from their fear of the halter, and the Democracy rejoice that their old leaders are restored to them.

But these eminent Democrats still labor under one disability. Though they can produce documentary proof, with the sign manual of A. Johnson, to show that they are not liable to further prosecution but are pardoned criminals, the Constitution of the United States—that hated Fourteenth Amendment—still brands them as rebels; and none of these Southern leaders of the Democratic party can come into Congress or into any State Legislature, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State. No doubt a principal reason why Democrats fought the Fourteenth Amendment so fiercely was that they knew it would place most of their old leaders under the ban.

But Jeff. Davis himself, not long ago, took refuge under this very Amendment. His counsel pleaded that as he was punished under the Amendment by disfranchisement, he could not be punished under the laws as a traitor. Not long ago a Chinaman in San Francisco also appealed to the Amendment for protection, and negroes throughout the country are doing the same thing every day. Thus we find that the leading representatives of the Southern Democracy, the shining lights of the Southern chivalry, the negroes, the Chinese, and all the "inferior" races, have been taking refuge together under the Fourteenth Amendment; but the chivalry are now relieved of the odium of such company, and by the last proclamation of the President are advanced to the dignity of pardoned criminals.

But nobody will regret that the farce of "making treason odious" which Johnson has been playing for three years, is over at last. In fact, there are few who will not rejoice that the last act is finished. Long ago the Executive made it morally impossible to try Jeff. Davis. He had pardoned nearly all the other rebels, including many who were more guilty and more deserving of punishment, than Davis himself. The curtain should have fallen some time ago; the fag end of the old, stale play has not been worth the candle. The Chief Justice has never intended to try Davis or any other man concerned in the rebellion. It has been suggested that he has had no desire to hear the choice State rights doctrines which he uttered while Governor of Ohio repeated and commented upon. However this may be, he has been shilly-shallying in concert with Johnson about the matter for several years, declining to try Davis or any other rebel when it could be done; and now the whole question has wavered and glimmered away into the limbo of departed things. Nobody is sorry. It is a relief to be done with it. The "Jeff. Davis question" has long been so stale that it has been shamed by every new sensation. It was thrown utterly in the shade by John Allen. It was totally eclipsed by the Pollard murder. It was fully time, to borrow the language of the play bills, that this programme should be withdrawn to make room for new attractions.

Treason, however, is odious. The trial and punishment of Davis was not necessary to convince the nation that the rebellion was a most wicked thing. A jury decision was not needed to establish the guilt of the authors of this crime, or to justify the loyal people for having overthrown the rebel Confederacy. The national cause is just as secure as if it had the verdict of a common jury in its favor. So odious is treason, in spite of Johnson's attempts to whitewash it, that the leaders of the great rebellion are virtually outlaws, and no man who has defended them or sympathized with their cause can ever obtain political honors or secure the confidence of his countrymen. The people have never demanded the blood of those who attempted to overthrow the Republic, but have fixed them in a place where "the time of scorn" will forever "point his slow, unmoving finger" at them. A traitor once exclaimed that all great Neptune's ocean could not wash the blood clean from his hand; no more can any number of proclamations of pardon remove the guilt and dishonor of those who were engaged in the late attempt to destroy our country.

NEGLECT OF DUTY.—Johnson complains in his message that the tenure-of-office act has interfered with his administration of the affairs of government, and that it has been a fruitful source of corruption and peculation in office. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue says that the greater part of the stealing has been done in the districts where Johnson's parasites have been appointed. The tenure act made it the duty of the President to suspend at once any unfit official. Johnson could find authority to suspend Stanton, but not the revenue officers of the whisky ring who have been cheating the Government and acting with the Democracy. His diatribe against the tenure act is a piece of characteristic dishonesty.

GREAT BLAST.—A few days ago a blast of fifteen tons of powder was exploded in California. The main shaft was 74 feet in depth; from this, cross drifts were run in different directions 100 feet or more, and the several chambers were heavily charged with powder. The whole [illegible] at the same instant by a galvanic battery. This is the largest blast ever [illegible] in that State.

SOLD OUT.—The Herald thinks its party was defeated in the [illegible] because there was "foul play" in its ranks. The New York Convention was captured by the "bondholders and old grannies," and the "vigorous young Democracy" forced to take back seats. This is only another way of saying that the Convention yielded to the money power of the Eastern Democrats. A contagion of itching palms was the ruin of the party.

> The Salem Unionist says it will cost $10,000 or $20,000 more to run the State without an appropriation than with it. Who gets the extra $10,000 or $20,000? If that can be ascertained it will perhaps show who defeated the appropriation bill.—Herald.

It is well known already that the appropriation bill was defeated by the Democratic majority. Putting this and that together, there ought to be no doubt who gets the "extra" money.

A BONUS FOR JOHNSON.—On the first day of the present session of Congress a Copperhead member introduced a bill to give Andrew Johnson $50,000 to reimburse him for his expenses in the impeachment trial. The Republicans in the House, not liking this measure of retrenchment, promptly voted the proposition down.

Weeding the Democratic Garden.

The Oregon Democracy are not harmonious. The Yamhill Courier continues to protest against the secession doctrines of the Herald and other papers. In its last issue the Courier says:

> We are tired of reading in a few journals, that profess to be Democratic, a constant outcropping of Southern sympathy—sympathy for the cause of the rebellion—sympathy with those who engaged in the rebellion. The rebellion and its leaders, followers and toadies have been placed in the black book, so far as their control of the politics of this country is concerned, and the sooner that fact is recognized the sooner will the Democratic party—that party of law and order—regain the control of the nation.

But that fact will not be recognized by the Democratic party, therefore it can't regain control of the nation. It must be admitted, however, that the Courier has a clearer discernment of the situation than any of its brethren of the Democratic press in Oregon. The Courier knows that it is the rebel doctrines of the party that keep it down. That paper proceeds:

> We have more respect for R. E. Lee than we have for Brick Pomeroy and that class of persons who could see no good in the acts of the general government, and to whom all that the South did seemed perfectly right. Nor can the Democratic party, or any other party succeed, that follows the lead of men, who, even now, when their cause and party is dead, keep prating about the beauties of the Southern Confederacy and the evil acts of Gen. Sherman, et al, while making war.

This is a severe thrust, but the following which is addressed to the Herald cuts still closer:

> The Herald professing to be Democratic, finds fault with Andrew Johnson for sustaining the general government, after his State had voted to withdraw from the Union. Now, we approve of the course of Mr. Johnson in standing under the Star Spangled Banner, and if those who aspire to be leaders of any party cannot find it in their hearts to recognize the logic of events and leave their rebellious thoughts with the dead and buried rebellion they can but be an injury to the party of which they profess to be members. If the Herald or any other paper proposes to indulge in slurs against those who stood by the Constitution and the Union, it had better be closed at once and forever.

The Courier adds that "while our only hope is in the Democracy, we should lose it altogether if the Democracy is under the control of the Confederate spirit;" and that "if the Herald is not conducted as it should be, the Democracy must turn in some other direction."

The other day the Commercial said it was going to "weed out the Democratic garden,"—meaning that it would ostracise all who are not "under the control of the Confederate spirit." But the Courier is going into the gardening business too. We shall see which of our friends succeeds in "weeding" the other out.

Successors to the "Intelligent Contraband."

General Grant is one of the least talkative of men, and the whole country knows that no one is authorized to speak for him or deliver his opinions. When the time comes for speech or action he speaks and acts for himself. Yet busy specials are industriously at work giving publicity to his "opinions" on matters with which he has yet no concern; as if they expected somebody to believe that Grant has appointed them to be his oracles. We may look out for a plentiful crop of rumors between now and the 4th March. Such expressions as "it is thought," "it is said," "it is asserted," "our correspondent learns from a prominent Congressman," etc., etc., will circulate very freely; and more opinions, diverse and contradictory, will be attributed to General Grant than he could invent in a lifetime. All these oracular utterances will be something less valuable than the predictions of the almanac-makers about rain and sunshine during the ensuing year. Nevertheless we may expect that the "intelligent contraband" of war memory will be, during the next two months, entirely outdone, and made ashamed of his trade.

THE RECENT DISASTERS IN SWITZERLAND.—An official account of the terrible disasters which have recently happened in Switzerland, the losses from which are to be counted by millions, has been received from the American Legation at the State Department at Washington. By a fearful rain fall which succeeded an unusually dry season, much of the Cantons of Grisons, Tessin, the Valais, Glaris, and St. Gall and Uri, have in consequence thereof been literally desolated by inundations. The mountain rivulets and cascades suddenly swelled to torrents, swept villages, hamlets, cattle, roads, bridges, dykes, earth and stone as debris upon the fields below, which are thus rendered forever hopeless wastes. The appeal of the authorities of the Canton of Tessin to their more fortunate fellow countrymen officially sets forth the effects of the storm, and this description may be taken as applicable, in a greater or less extent, to the other Cantons named:

> "In the night of the 27th and 28th of September our Canton was struck by a frightful catastrophe. A volume of water precipitated itself as a deluge into the valleys of Blenio, of the Lavantine, the Riviera, the Vernasco and the Maggia. This scourge was accompanied by the destruction of buildings and by the fall of trees, by earth and rock slides, in such a manner as if all the elements had combined to rival each other in the work of devastation. All the beautiful country that extends from Giornico and Olivone to Biasca, unrecognizable to-day, is nothing but a mass of debris. Roads, bridges and dykes are destroyed; houses, mills and stables have been swept away; the rich forests, the fertile fields and vineyards, but yesterday flourishing, have disappeared; cattle have perished by thousands; and that which adds to the consternation is the loss of more than fifty persons, some surprised in their sleep, and others the victims of their devotion, while attempting to rescue and assist the drowning. Fathers and mothers of families have been crushed under the falling houses, and their bodies swept off by the rushing waters. The disaster surpasses all that imagination can picture. Thousands of families have been struck by the calamity, and many of them have been reduced to the last extremity—without roof, without clothes, without bread, and several deprived of their fathers."

> BEECHER TALKING POLITICS AND EATING DINNER.—Before going to the dinner table the subject of American politics had been discussed between Mr. Beecher and his guest, and the conversation was resumed as soon as grace had been said, with an interest which bid fair to supersede the ordinarily important act of dining. The soup dispatched, it was some time before enough of the joint was carved to serve the guest, and then a long pause in the helping came, while my host, with carving knife and fork in hand, expatiated upon the pending issues of the coming election. "Henry, my dear," said Mrs. Beecher, "you're forgetting the dinner." Another was helped, then more passing, and more earnest, eloquent discourse about the political situation; fresh reminders about dinner; a proposal by me to postpone politics till after dinner, which elicited a "Cant be done, never mind dinner; we've got into the subject now, and it's better than dinner." The negro suffrage question, universal suffrage in the abstract, woman suffrage, the foreign influence in American politics, and the prospects of the presidential campaign, were dilated on, and what was said so absorbed me that I couldn't find how the stuffed veal tasted or the egg plant—a novelty to me, didn't know whether I had eaten enough or too little, and rose from the table in a sort of bewildering maze, unable to decide whether I had been taking a meal or listening to a fascinating lecture. Mr. Beecher is a splendid talker. On any subject that interests him, he fires up and coruscates in private just as he does in public. His gems of poetry and eloquence are not carefully ground up and polished by the lapidary's process, but burst naturally and brilliantly like the final splendors of a rocket. As I listened, it seemed to me that thoughts, illustrations and phrases, quite equal to anything I had heard from his lips in the pulpit or read from his pen, dropped from him in conversation.—A Canadian Clergyman.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO DECEMBER 29.

Washington News.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—A Washington special says it is understood that President Johnson intends retiring all army officers over sixty-two years of age, among whom are Lorenzo Thomas, Paymaster General, and Brigadier Gen. Cook.

Information is received of an attempt to assassinate McKee, the Republican Congressman from Mississippi, on a steamboat. McKee was slightly wounded, and Bill Hewitt, one of the assassins, was seriously wounded.

Proposed Division of Michigan.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—A large convention of prominent citizens of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, was held to-day at Houghton. Resolutions were adopted, instructing their representatives in the State Legislature to use all honorable means to have the Upper Peninsula detached from the State and cause its erection into separate Territorial or State governments. The meeting was very large and enthusiastic.

The Isthmus Canal.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The Evening Post has a report that Caleb Cushing has been sent to Bogota with full powers from our Government to close the contract for building a ship canal across the Isthmus, towards which it is said our Government is ready to promise and guarantee one million dollars.

The same paper says it is asserted Gen. Grant has been consulted about a Panama ship canal and he is warmly in favor of the scheme. He says he thinks its construction necessary to preserve our commercial naval supremacy and our empire on the Pacific coast.

It is rumored that Cushing has been examining maps to report upon the most feasible line for a canal, and that he is convinced that the canal must be built at or very near the line of the present Panama railroad, and that the Canal Company and Railroad Company ought to be one.

Woman's Rights—Overland Mail.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Calls have been issued for a national convention of woman's rights and colored men, to meet in Washington about the middle of January.

The House Appropriating Committee to-day were investigating the contract made with Wells, Fargo & Co., for carrying the overland mail.

Dinner to Senator Casserly.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—R. B. Roosevelt, of New York, gave an elegant dinner at Delmonico's to-night, to Senator Casserly of California. Many other guests were present, and the leading members of the New York press, who were invited with the view of making Mr. Casserly's acquaintance. A pleasant, sociable evening was passed. Speeches were made by the host, Mr. Casserly, Wm. C. Bryant, Horace Greely, Chas. A. Dana, John Bigler, Oakley Hall, Erastus Brooks, T. A. Conchling, Hugh Hastings, J. M. Simonton and others. Mr. Casserly, in the course of his remarks, alluded to the arrest of Samuel Bowles, and said the man who committed such an outrage upon the liberties of the press will yet have reason to rue his temerity.

Letter from Gen. [illegible]

A long letter from Gen. Longstreet is published. He ridicules the idea that Grant is a Democrat. He says he regards his past course and decided character as the surest guarantee of his future course. His antecedents clearly mark him as a national man, and as such he gives adhesion to the party whose basis is Union, and the influence of his administration will be applied to its complete and perfect restoration. He tells the Southern people that all that is required for perfect peace, is their hearty co-operation in Congressional reconstruction.

Miscellaneous.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The last brick was laid in the Washington street tunnel, under the river, last evening. It will be formally opened on New Year's Day, by the fire companies, on the part of the municipal authorities.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The great billiard match for $1,000 a side on a French carom table, 300 points, between Melville Foster and Joseph Dion, was won by Foster by four points. The game lasted till one o'clock this morning.

PEAKESVILLE, N. Y., Dec. 28.—The office of the American Express Co. was entered by burglars this morning, the safe blown open and robbed of funds and the place then set on fire. The office is under the City Hotel, which was destroyed, together with a grocery store. The loss is $15,000.

Arrest of Samuel Bowles.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—James Fiske, in a card, asserts that the attack on him in the Springfield Republican was the occasion of the arrest of Mr. Bowles. Fiske thinks he was justified in so doing. He says: "In order to protect my rights I appealed to the law, which is the highest expression of human wisdom for the good government of mankind. If error has been committed, those who made the law have committed it. I regret that the wife of Samuel Bowles, Esq., of Springfield, Mass., was disturbed or even annoyed by her husband's temporary absence. As for the sympathy and sycophancy of the power of office seekers and small beer editors who clamored around the sailors for their comrade's release, their abuse I expected and am indifferent to. Bowles proposed the game himself and I threw him over the first innings. I think it will generally be conceded that I have as much right to defend my personal character as any newspaper has to attack it. At all events, I shall do so with the most unflinching determination till it is proved to the contrary."

The Cuban Insurrection.

HAVANA, Dec. 27.—The official reports of the battle near Halguin are confirmed. The Diario says the insurgents confess their loss at five hundred men and cannon. Small bands of revolutionists have made their appearance near Giberia. Count Valmaredez's column is advancing from Neocootas to the interior. No reports of engagements have been received.

HAVANA, Dec. 29.—The intelligence from St Domingo is that the Government troops defeated the insurgents at Los Mateos.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The steamer Alaska brings news of the re-election of President Denens in Salvador. An attempt to overthrow the Provisional Government of Costa Rica has been discovered. Its author, Gen. Salaz, has been called upon to resign the office of Commander-in-Chief.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

VIENNA, Dec. 27.—The Grecians are fleeing from Turkey on account of threatened war. Several families of fugitives have been received by the people of Romania. They have been warned, however, that they must preserve absolute neutrality in case of war, on pain of expulsion.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Letters from Montevideo say that President Lopez is prepared to accord full satisfaction to the United States for the wrongs suffered by American citizens. It is also stated that he is about to leave Valeta for Asuncion. The allies were surprised in an advance on Asuncion and lost one hundred prisoners.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The Prussian Government received, on Christmas, an invitation from Napoleon to join the Paris conference.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 29.—It is confidently asserted that the Porte will oppose the holding of the conference.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 29.—The steamship Columbia, which had been reported missing, arrived here under sail, having lost her propeller. It is stated that there is not a shadow of truth in the reported agreement between America and England on the Alabama claims. The Herald's Berlin special stated the basis.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Mike Brannigan and Harriet Skillman, convicted of conspiracy to seduce Mary Keating and Catherine Rourke to prostitution, were sentenced to-day—Brannigan to pay fifty dollars and Skillman two hundred dollars fine.

Yesterday afternoon a car on Taylor street was thrown from the track by an infernal machine which had been placed upon the rail and was exploded by the car wheel.

A company has been incorporated to extend Montgomery street from Market to Howard, in a line with and between Second and Third streets. They have purchased or leased all the property through which they propose to cut the street. Capital stock, $7,500,000. Trustees, John B. Fry, L. L. Treadwell and A. Harpending.

Proceedings have been commenced in the County Court by them, to prevent the proposed extension of Montgomery street diagonally through the blocks between Market and Brannan.

The District Attorney has obtained a stay of proceedings to prevent the payment of twenty one hundred dollars apiece to the members of the outside land committee.

John A. Graham's cigar store on Market street, was robbed last night.

James Malloy, who was shot by officer Bachelder Sunday, was reported alive this morning, but there was little hope of his recovery. Bachelder has been admitted to bail in the sum of two thousand dollars.

A fire occurred in Solomon's fancy dry goods store on Second street, last night. Damage three hundred dollars.

GENERAL GRANT'S VIEWS ON THE SUFFRAGE QUESTION.—The New York Herald of December 1st says, editorially: "We learn from the best unexceptionable authority that General Grant is emphatically in favor of so amending the Constitution as to limit therein the President to one term, and to make universal suffrage, or suffrage to male citizens of all races and colors, above the age of twenty-one years, the supreme law of the land. Next, with regard to universal suffrage, in respect to the constitutional amendment contained in Article 14, which provides that the several States may regulate suffrage each for itself, but, in proportion as suffrage is restricted, restoration shall be restricted, is not considered a settlement by General Grant, but a rule apt to result in endless trouble from the conflicting plans likely to be adopted among States. Hence, no doubt, General Grant has concluded an amendment making universal manhood suffrage the supreme law of the land in all the States and Territories, is the only decisive solution of this otherwise embarrassing question."

A NEW THEORY.—A theory of the Universe has been started, says an exchange, according to which the author attempts to show that the earth has been formed from gaseous matter, which, in the first instance, issuing from the sun, subsequently passed from the gaseous to the liquid state, and is now passing from the liquid into a solid form; that the earth and all the other planets of the solar system are gradually approaching the sun, into which they will ultimately fall and be absorbed.

CHARITY.—A large class of people professing to be virtuous, on many occasions forget that to be charitable to a fellow being is the least virtue a person can possess. It is not always by giving money to the poor or assisting the afflicted that a person can only show their charity. A good advice is often better than money; for instance. Meeting a person who wishes to purchase a common or fine suit of clothes or any other article in the Clothing or Dry Goods line, is it not a charitable act toward that person to recommend them to go to Kohn & Fishel, sure being certain that at that House they can purchase to the lowest rates and receive good goods, and where the most particular can be satisfied?

RELIGIOUS AND THEATRICAL.—We observe that th[e] [illegible] and the Commercial have got into a cont[roversy] about the moral effect of theatricals. The former [illegible] as ignorant of the modern drama as the [illegible] probably [illegible] acknowledge absolute [illegible] asserts that "The the[atre] [illegible] dissipation in our large c[ities] [illegible] with African slavery and [illegible] The latter paper cuts back sharply and [illegible] the morality of the Advocate, on this [illegible] [illegible] is nearest right. [illegible] understand the reason why religionists, [illegible] out against things of which [illegible] next to nothing. We wish it [illegible] respectfully when we say th[at] [illegible] the editor of the Advocate ever saw a fair [illegible] of modern drama, or can tell [illegible] views of life are false," or how it is corrupting [illegible] "first step to ruin." Did he ever read Sh[akespeare] [illegible] If not his reading has been by far too [illegible] Is Shakespeare not a fit book for the family or soci[ety] [illegible] If so, why are not his plays fit to be repre[sented] [illegible] and his character is made to live and [illegible] as we know anything of the [illegible] and we believe we have seen [illegible] of the Advocate—we can find [illegible] pernicious to morals. We know of no [illegible] play that is not moral in its tone and [illegible] stage has even reformed all of [illegible] the expurgation of words and phrases by which [illegible] might be offended. We doubt if even one of [illegible] among modern managers would put upon [illegible] the recitation of certain [illegible] without cutting out some of the [illegible] The [illegible] should know to what we [illegible] any of the plays performed at Oro [Fino] [illegible] by the Bates co[mpany] [illegible] and that there is not one [illegible] them but has a [illegible] moral. Even "Camille," which has been the sub[ject] [illegible] than any other modern play, sho[ws] [illegible] the downward tendency of a [illegible] the inevitable end of a life of vice; and it does [illegible] as certainly does not paint vice att[ractive]ly [illegible] in almost every modern play, virtue [illegible] punished. Where such are the facts we canno[t] [illegible] see where lies the sin of [illegible] amusement. Dr. Johnson, a man who [illegible] be accused of having [illegible] personal example or in his writ[ings] [illegible] the opinion that theatres and such like [illegible] amusements were positively [illegible] people from vice; and John Stuart Mill, the [illegible] philosopher of England, than [illegible] no man has [illegible] for the advancement of [illegible] to the Electors of Oxford, [illegible] be made places of instructive [illegible] that he should "vote for [illegible] such [illegible] as museums and librari[es] [illegible] days."

AMONG YE HURDIES.—J. Bain, Esq., has [illegible] [illegible]

THE PLACE.—[illegible] Captain Nathan [illegible] informed us that he [illegible] [illegible] with this matter, then, Oak Point [illegible] the historical inter[est] [illegible] on the Columbia river, [illegible] and disastrous.

WEATHER.—The Walla Wa[lla] [illegible] says: "During the last [illegible] we have had [illegible] to a snow storm, but each time [illegible] then of a deluge of rain. At this [illegible] afternoon—it is making a d[illegible] the chances are that [illegible] sleigh ride on Christmas would have been [illegible] the clerk of the weath[er] [illegible] the above was in type the snow has [illegible] and there is every prospect of [illegible] weather as that is in marked contrast with [illegible] same day. Our Christmas [illegible] would not live in Webfoot?

THE PORTLAND AND BOISE T[ELEGRAPH].—Mr. H. [illegible] left this city yesterday morning, in the [em]ploy of the [O.] S. N. Co., to superintend the erection of the [illegible] line between the Dalles and Umatilla. The work is [to be] commenced immediately. The poles have been [illegible] got out and distributed along [illegible] and it is inte[nded] to push the work to completion within the next [illegible] weeks. The section between the two points [illegible] is a part of the line between Po[rtland] and [illegible] City.

CURIOUS STATEMENT.—One of our [illegible] says: "In Alaska they keep Sa[turday] [illegible] Bishop who first traveled half [illegible] the world, from Petersburg, to establish the Greek Ch[urch] in Ru[ssian] America, did not observe the gain of a day in [illegible] against the sun. The present B[illegible] the observance of the American Sabbath. The [illegible] been hold on to their own way. Their [illegible] are eleven days behind ours."

NEW TALENT.—We are pleased to [illegible] that Bates has effected an engagement with Miss [illegible] pear at Oro Fino with the regular [illegible] She [will] make her debut before a Portland [illegible] Thursday evening, in a new piece. Mrs. [illegible] has also been engaged and will [illegible] are accessions which will add new inter[est] to the [per]formances at Oro Fino.

THE RAIN STORM.—For the last day or two, a se[vere] rain storm has been prevailing here. Mr. Gould, of [the] telegraph office, informs us that he [he]ard yeste[rday] from the way offices, that the storm is [illegible] along the line as far as Sacramento City, and that [illegible] the afternoon it was very severe at Yreka. [It] seems that Webfoot is not alone in the [illegible] of [illegible] dewy weather.

NEW YEAR'S EVE BALL.—The lady friends of the [illegible] met Guard have issued tickets for a New Year's Eve [ball] to be given in honor of the Company at their Armor[y] Moffatt's new brick building on Front street, betw[een] Yamhill and Taylor. We acknowledge the recei[pt of] complimentary tickets from the committee of invita[tion] Miss J. J. Walton and Miss C. Dillon.

FINANCIAL ABILITY.—Some of the patrons of the [illegible] at one of our principal hotels had failed to [get] their papers for a long time and wondered what [had] become of them. Finally one morning this [illegible] an "efficient financial" genius was seen [illegible] He doubtless sold them for ten cents apie[ce], and [has] been making quite a good thing. It is hoped the[y] will desist hereafter.

ENLARGED.—The Commercial appeared last eve[ning] with its new clothes on and enlarged by the addition [of a] column. The editor says that under the circu[mstances] he feels like the girl who "exposed her ankles [to the] gaze of an admiring crowd and cried exultingly [illegible] you see my new shoes." Tickled, isn't he?

REMOVAL.—The wholesale grocery establishme[nt of] Messrs. Corbett & Macleay is being removed to the [new] brick store on the corner of Front and Pine streets. T[heir] business has grown to proportions which demand [more] room than they have heretofore had. The firm has [won] its success by integrity and fair dealing.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS.—Since Saturday the follo[wing] amounts of produce have been received by [the] steamers: [illegible] bacon, 46 bbls pork, 5,600 q[illegible] flour, [illegible] eggs, 487 bags whea[t], [illegible] butter, [illegible] hides, 12 cases lard, 9[illegible] oats, [illegible] hams.

SURELY.—The following bit of Commercial wit [illegible] from our evening contemporary: "A depot [illegible] the nature of [illegible] be had for freight coming down [the] valley and we cannot see but what Portland will [be] selected as that place." Shouldn't wonder!

DISCONTINUED.—The post office at Oswego has been [tem]porarily suspended for want of a person to act as [post]master, Mr. [illegible] having resigned.

TO THE HEAD OF NAVIGATION.—The P. T. Co.'s st[eamer] Echo is now making regular trips to Eugene City [while the] water is at a favorable stage.

EMMET GUARD ELECTION.—The annual electi[on of] officers of the Emmet Guard will take place Wedn[esday] [illegible] January 6th.

[illegible] AND THEATRES.—We observe that the Advocate and the Commercial have [illegible] on the moral effect of theatricals. The former paper, probably as ignorant of the modern drama as the latter [illegible] late, free will [illegible] [illegible] of theology was [illegible] that the theater is a chief source of moral [illegible] in large cities, and [illegible] the moral [illegible] with African slavery [illegible]. The latter paper cuts back sharply and [illegible] the morality of the Advocate in this matter [illegible] and its [illegible] as mistaken. The Commercial, we cannot but think, is [illegible] right. We may [illegible] stand the [illegible] who [illegible], or any [illegible] should cry out against things of which they [illegible] nothing or next to nothing. We wish it understood that we speak [illegible] when we say that we [illegible] if the editor of the Advocate ever saw a fair [illegible] drama, or can tell precisely how its [illegible] are false, or how it is [illegible] step to ruin." Did he ever read Shakespeare? If not, his reading [illegible] is not a fit book for the family or social [illegible]. If so, why are not his plays fit to be [illegible] [illegible] live and speak as [illegible] know anything of the legitimate modern [illegible] we believe we have seen ten times as much [illegible] the editor of the Advocate—we [illegible] to morals. We know of no popular modern play that is not moral in its tone and [illegible]. The [illegible] has even reformed all of Shakespeare's plays by [illegible] of words and phrases by which ears [illegible] be offended. We doubt if even one of a hundred modern managers would put upon his [illegible] recitation of certain chapters of the Bible [illegible] some of the words. The editor of [illegible] should know to what we allude. If [illegible] the plays performed at Oro Fino [illegible], by the Bates company, we shall [illegible] one among them but has a good [illegible] "[illegible] Life," which has been the subject of [illegible] any other modern play, shows to [illegible] and of a life of vice, and it does it in such [illegible] does not paint vice attractively. In [illegible] almost every modern play, virtue rewarded and [illegible]. Where such are the facts we cannot [illegible] the sin of theaters as places of popular [illegible]. Dr. Johnson, a man who certainly can[illegible] of having favored licentiousness, either by example or in his written works, expressed that theatres and such like places of harmless [illegible] were positively necessary to restrain [illegible]; and John Stuart Mill, the great living [illegible] of England, than whom no man has done [illegible] the advancement of public morals, in a late [illegible] of Oxford stated that theatres might [illegible] of instructive recreation." He also stated [illegible] vote for opening such places of instruction and libraries on Sundays."

IN HUMOR.—J. Snip, Esq., has lately been [illegible] and he gives the following as his first [illegible] at a "Grand Ball." Time—evening [illegible] good music. Result—much danc[illegible]. I was there, so was many others—sweeters, I am [illegible] and me. All waiting patiently for the [illegible] of those whom we all came there to see. Door [illegible] were closely watching as four female [illegible] the spacious hall. Blue jackets, red [illegible], fancy dancing rigs, balmoral [illegible] like little barber poles of flesh, blood [illegible]. Girls were pretty—oh, golly [illegible] with green strings in 'em. All looked [illegible], if not more so, except the most fascin[illegible] (known as the ball mare) and who [illegible] of being of noble birth—must be a [illegible] but has been reduced to poverty by [illegible] Algiers. Music began playing itself—boys went forth to dance. Nice spot that dancing [illegible] representatives of all occupations and a few [illegible] to the Legislature, were in attendance. [illegible] and girls rally around the bar and [illegible] take seats. In this year of our Lord [illegible] my best forte, but strong heart said 'try [illegible]' [illegible] and rushed vigorously forward to [illegible] for dance. Girl giggled and said "yes." [illegible] girl to dance. Answered me then "yaw" [illegible] at hither and yon, yon and hither, as the [illegible] in on Goat Island — "All sot!" yelled a fellow [illegible], but I couldn't see it in that light from [illegible] we were standing in a square circle. Man [illegible] the right of me, married man to the left of [illegible] man in front of me danced and blundered [illegible] "to your partners," and forward and back, etc. [illegible] with my sweet little chicken with [illegible] striped apron and fancy head gear, that I [illegible] the dance ended until she jogged my [illegible] by escorting me to the bar, where we drank a [illegible] to each other's good health. Me—"here's luck [illegible]" (translate yourself). I don't know [illegible], for it was not my intention to "soon get [illegible]" [illegible] came [illegible] dance—crowd kept [illegible] in. Tried to retreat—fine prospect— [illegible] emerged from where I ought not to have been [illegible] 3 o'clock in the morning) in a somewhat [illegible] and demoralized condition. In fact [illegible] hors du combat (that's French, and [illegible] was not drunk, but absent minded) [illegible] my way home and retired. Here the case of [illegible] showed itself. Instance—waked up [illegible] o'clock and found self in a chair, divested of all [illegible] thought I had been robbed of my clothing [illegible] no money). Began looking about for the [illegible] necessary to comfort, and found that instead of [illegible] myself I had undressed and put my coat [illegible] and boots to bed and hung myself on a chair [illegible] fit of absent-mindedness. Thus ended the [illegible]

[illegible].—Yesterday Captain Couch, in conversation [illegible] the settlement on the Columbia river attempt[illegible] Nathan Winship, of the Albatross, in 1810, [illegible] that he had many years ago talked with a [illegible], who came on the expedition from the [illegible], and from him had learned that the [illegible] for the trading post and settlement was [illegible] known as Oak Point. In connection [illegible], then, Oak Point must always possess [illegible] of being the first white settlement [illegible] river, even though its history was brief.

[illegible] Walla Walla Statesman, of Friday, [illegible] the last week we have had several at[illegible] a storm, but each time a failure, and [illegible] of rain. At this writing—Thursday [illegible] making a desperate effort to snow, but [illegible] that it will melt away into rain. A [illegible] Christmas would have been delightful, but [illegible] weather has ordered differently. Since [illegible] in type the snow had got the best of it, [illegible] every prospect of excellent sleighing." Such [illegible] is in marked contrast with ours of the [illegible] Our Christmas was warm and pleasant. Who [illegible] in Webfoot?

[illegible] AND BOISE TELEGRAPH.—Mr. H. Butler [illegible] day morning, in the employ of the O[illegible] [illegible] superintend the erection of the telegraph [illegible] the Dalles and Umatilla. The work is to be [illegible] lately. The poles have been already [illegible] ted along the route, and it is intended [illegible] work to completion within the next few [illegible] between the two points named is to [illegible] line between Portland and Boise city.

[illegible].—One of our northern exchanges [illegible] they keep Saturday for Sunday. The [illegible] first traveled half round the world, from St [illegible] to establish the Greek Church in Russian [illegible] observe the gain of a day in going [illegible]. The present Bishop has ordered the ob[illegible] American Sabbath. The Russians [illegible] their own way. Their dates are also [illegible] "as ours."

[illegible].—We are pleased to announce that Mr [illegible] an engagement with Miss Fields to ap[illegible] Fino with the regular company. She will [illegible] before a Portland audience, probably on [illegible], in a new piece. Mrs Clara Robinson [illegible] engaged and will shortly appear. These [illegible] which will add new interest to the per[illegible] Oro Fino.

[illegible].—For the last day or two, a severe [illegible] has been prevailing here. Mr Guild, of the [illegible], informs us that he learned yesterday [illegible] offices, that the storm is prevailing all [illegible] as far as Sacramento City, and that dur[illegible] it was very severe at Yreka. So it [illegible] is not alone in the matter of moist, [illegible]

[illegible] EVE BALL.—The lady friends of the Em[illegible] issued tickets for a New Year's Eve Ball [illegible] of the Company at their Armory, in [illegible] brick building on Front street, between [illegible] Taylor. We acknowledge the receipt of [illegible] from the committee of invitation—[illegible] J. Walton and Miss C. Dillon.

AN ARTIFICE.—Some of the patrons of the Ore[illegible] of our principal [illegible] it is [illegible] failed to get [illegible] for a long time and wondered what could [illegible] of them. Finally one morning this week [illegible] "financial" genius was seen cribbing them [illegible] sold them for ten cents apiece and had [illegible] quite a good thing. It is hoped that he [illegible] after.

[illegible] The Commercial appeared last evening [illegible] clothes on and enlarged by the addition of a [illegible] The editor says that under the circumstances [illegible] the girl who exposed her ankles to the [illegible] admiring crowd and cried exultingly "Don't [illegible] new shoes!" Tickled, isn't he.

[illegible].—The wholesale grocery establishment of [illegible] & Macleay is being removed to the large [illegible] on the corner of Front and Pine streets. Their [illegible] has grown to proportions which demands more [illegible] they have heretofore had. The firm has won [illegible] by integrity and fair dealing.

[illegible] RECEIPTS.—Since Saturday the following [illegible] Oregon products have been received by river [illegible] gunnies bacon, 40 bbls pork, 5 000 qr sks [illegible] bales woolens, [illegible] eggs, 557 bags wheat, 12 [illegible], 301 sks feed, [illegible] hides, 14 cases lard, 98 bags [illegible] barley, 6 gunnies hams.

[illegible].—The following, bit of Commercial wisdom is [illegible] contemporary: "A depot must in [illegible] of things, be had for freight coming down the [illegible] we cannot see but what Portland will be so [illegible] place." Should not wonder.

[illegible].—The post office at Oswego has been [illegible] [illegible] for want of a person to act as post[illegible] McDonald having resigned.

[illegible] HEAD OF NAVIGATION.—The P. T. Co.'s steamer [illegible] making regular trips to Eugene City. The [illegible] is favorable at [illegible]

[illegible] GUARD ELECTION.—The annual election for [illegible] Guard will take place Wednesday [illegible] 6th.

FROM WARREN'S DIGGINGS.—A letter from Warren's Camp, dated Dec. 10th, and published in the last issue of the Walla Walla Statesman, says: "[illegible] I have just read an article in your paper [illegible] regard to the quartz mines in this county, the [illegible] in the main correct, but the writer says that the mills had ceased crushing for the season. Now, in the contrary [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] On and [illegible] have [illegible] [illegible] we have [illegible] [illegible] Messrs. Hall & W[illegible] [illegible] with a [illegible] fully [illegible] [illegible] the Hall [illegible] [illegible] an expl[illegible] [illegible] Well they learned up. The result was a ton [illegible] pay expenses, consequently everybody felt [illegible] saying is. Sub[illegible] [illegible] Mr [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] from the Scott lead was also [illegible] at [illegible] Christmas at [illegible] and [illegible] work getting out [illegible] the confidence of the miners and people [illegible] [illegible] richness [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Poor Man [illegible] the Mount [illegible] which [illegible] always [illegible] [illegible] tion."

THE MASQUERADE BALL.—Owing to the lateness of the hour at which we left the Masquerade, we have only time to say that the affair was a most complete success, and that for variety [illegible] [illegible] costumes it has never been surpassed in this city. The Vera [illegible] Hall was well filled throughout [illegible] with masks and everybody seemed to [illegible] the utmost zest in the festivities. [illegible] we shall give some of the details of costumes in [illegible]

ORO FINO THEATER.—The beautiful drama of "The Wife" was played at Oro Fino last evening, with Mr Bates and Mrs. Bates in the leading characters. The audience was a small [illegible] but it was one of the [illegible] appreciative ones. Mrs Bates and Mr [illegible] were frequently greeted with [illegible] applause. The play will be repeated to-night with the same cast. It should have a full house.

A NEW STEAMER.—We learn from Capt. J. N. Fisher that he is engaged in getting out material for a new steamboat for the Wallamet and Columbia river trade, and that as soon as spring opens, he will begin its construction. The Ranger is getting somewhat used up, and, beside, the Captain wants a faster boat.

The Democratic Party and Gen Grant.

There seem to be apprehensions in the Democratic party of a general stampede from its ranks to the support of Gen Grant's administration. Some of the organs of that party which have been most violent in their secessionism, and who know of course that such a movement cannot enure to their benefit, protest very strongly against it. The following is from one of them:

(From the Baltimore Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, Dec 4

I am sorry to say that notwithstanding the general desire of the Conservative Democratic party, and the expressed wishes of three-fourths of their representatives in Congress, there are fears that the toadies have secured the services of a quasi Democrat to introduce a bill, at the first opportunity, repealing the "Tenure of Office" act. This measure has been thus early forced upon the Conservative party for sinister purposes. Newspapers are in the market. I have authority for denouncing in advance the shuffler who proposes to lend himself to accomplish this vile purpose.

Under the extraordinary circumstances which have led to the election of members of Congress of supposed constitutional principles, it is not to be wondered that black sheep may be found in the fold in such a crisis. But, if the person to whom I more particularly allude, or any others, shall, against the better judgment of the Conservative party in Congress, attempt to inaugurate a system of adulation to the new President or continue their toadyism, he will be denounced by name. This thing must be stopped! To subserve private and party ends the South is offered for sale to the highest bidder! I say to the statesmen of the South, keep aloof from false friends.

Doubtless energetic attempts will be made to prevent ambitious and egotistic politicians, who are recent converts to constitutional principles, from compromising that party which has consistently sustained the true faith. They must be finally successful. In this emergency the double-dealers should be exposed, and the sooner the better. Parties hereafter must be designated as "Administration" and "Opposition." The questions will be, who is for Grant's administration? Who is against it?

I have reason to hope that before Congress shall assemble I may have the pleasure of giving intelligence of a better understanding among Democratic and Conservative members. A word to the wise is sufficient. X.

The most extraordinary estimate of Grant is the following, from the Louisville Courier-Journal: "General Grant is by nature a sporting man. In the extremities of fortune to which he was reduced before the war, nothing saved him from faro-dealing but his habits. He was too irregular, for those little, silent silver boxes require hands that are steady and a head that is always 'level.' But Grant has, nevertheless, much of the stuff of which the professional gamester is composed. His sympathies are limited, but kindly. He is not impulsive. He has courage, perseverance, reticence. His temper is even, and his purposes, being simple, are distinct. Underlying all these traits of character there is the naturally shrewd, complacent, philosophic worldliness, the cool instinct which lead a man to choose wisely when opportunities offer, and to act prudently under responsibility. Every gambler who got into the army during the war fought well. The same sort of capacity which makes a man a successful gambler will make him a successful soldier."

A REMARKABLE MEMORY.—Boys are sometimes endowed with remarkable memories. The Keen family, of the State of Texas, consisted of three girls and a boy—the latter only four years old. They were all sitting round the fire one evening, engaged in telling how far back they could recollect. One of the girls recollected when she had "a doll that winked with both eyes." Another recollected when she was a "little baby and Nancy tickled her feet." Johnny Keen, who was the last and least of them all, said he recollected "more than that." "How was?" said all the girls in a breath. "Oh I recollect afore I was born, and how I cried all the time for fear I'd be a gal!"

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Handsome Dress Silks, of all colors and at very much reduced prices. Magnificent Dress Goods, and numerous other goods for Ladies and Gents wear, at very low prices, which everybody should examine, at KOHN & FISHEL's, No. 9 Front street.

GRACEFUL AND PLEASING.—Those new and beautiful styles of Parlor Suites so fashionable at the East Can be seen at Hurgren & Shindler's. Also, many rare articles of ornament and use, for the parlor and the house.

COUNTY TAX.—Those persons who owe county tax will be liable to pay costs [illegible] delinquent, on and after January 4th.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—Mr. Fitzg[illegible] has opened a Night School in the [illegible] near the Catholic Church. For Terms—See the Teacher.

One day while promenading the streets of the town,
With a very poor chap an [illegible] my crown
I met an old friend who'm my taste did not flatter,
For he asked me in [illegible] Who is your Hatter

"My good friend," I answered, "a [illegible] I have none,
'Tis long since I made the acquaintance of one,
My head gear, I know, is [illegible] to seed
But I'll visit your Hatter if you'll take the lead."

Agreed," he replied, "we sauntered along,
And making our way through the gay busy throng
Each puffing in [illegible] a [illegible] cigar
W[illegible] at the [illegible] Muessdorffer's Bazaar!

We found [illegible] Emp[illegible] [illegible]
With Hats and Caps [illegible]
I was speedily suited in [illegible] and style
And observed to my friend with a satisfied smile

"Your judgment in this, as in most other matters,
Is unerring, for Muessdorffer's the Hatter of Hatters."

Let the leader of Fash[illegible] as [illegible] may,
And the Hatter who [illegible] say
But Ornate Morrison and Front st. always for me
For MUESSDORFFERS, the Hatter of Portland's he!

HATS! HATS! HATS!

Are now to be found at MUESSDORFFER'S New Hat Store, Corner Morrison and Front streets which will be OPENED TO-DAY, Dec 17th.

CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

CELEBRATED
AROMATIC
SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS.
TO THE CITIZENS OF OREGON:
I BEG LEAVE TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF THE [illegible] of Oregon to my celebrated AROMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS, a medicinal Diet Drink of eminent salutary qualities manufactured by myself exclusively at my factory at Schiedam, in Holland.
[illegible] Gravel, Rheumatism, Obstructions of the Bladder and Kidneys, its effects are prompt, decided [illegible]
It is now some twenty years since the Proprietor first [illegible] the American public, and during that time he has received over 3,000 letters from physicians [illegible] the purest [illegible] they have ever used [illegible]
It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic juniper berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.
As a means of preventing and correcting disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced on the stomach and [illegible] change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers and all unacclimated persons are peculiarly liable—the
SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS

The New Hero of Wall Street

(From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.)

It is time the biographers began to deal with Mr James Fisk, Jr, the new Wall street hero. His connection with the Erie railroad's history for a year has made him notorious through the country, has placed him in fact in a niche above Robert Schuyler, Daniel Drew, Cornelius Vanderbilt, possibly Morton Peto. He has improved on all their inventions in stock gambling and by bold and reckless daring in manipulating the affairs of a gigantic corporation and the finances of Wall street, entitled himself to a place in the gallery of noted lives. The appellation of fat, fair and forty, so often given to well preserved women, belongs peculiarly to him; he is almost as broad as he is high and so round that he rolls rather than walks. But his nervous energy is stimulated rather than deadened by his fat, which gives inde[illegible] momentum to his mental movement and his personal influence.

Yankee of course and Vermont at that and a peddler to boot, do we not thus tell the whole secret of his life and character? Brattleboro was his home, and his father, James Fisk, Sr, a hale hearty successful peddler of dry goods among the country towns of Vermont and New Hampshire. The son joined his energy to the business, which grew into an amount and obtained a character unprecedented in the history of peddling. They devoted themselves to choice dry goods for the ladies—silks, velvets, ribbons, poplins, etc; drove elegant four horse teams; made their regular rounds through western Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and eastern New York, established a settled, first class trade, and furnished their customers, the best ladies of all the country towns, with a higher quality of goods and at fairer prices than they could get without going to New York or Boston. There was a great titulation among the village belles and mesdames when the Fisks came to town with their elegant turnout and their magnificent goods. Their sales were measured by the hundred thousand yearly, and they were larger customers of the city jobbers than a dozen ordinary country merchants.

Such quality could not long be confined to selling silks by the yard, and young Fisk's acquaintance with the houses he bought goods of in Boston some five or six years ago took him to that city as a member of the firm of Jordan, Marsh & Co. To their operations he at once gave new breadth. It soon became the first wholesale and retail house in Boston, controlling the markets, running mills—making money. But this did not long satisfy; ambition and audacity grew by what they fed on, and Mr Fisk left the Boston firm with a $200,000 fortune, and entered upon cotton and other speculations in the South and in New York. Losing and winning, two or more years passed away, when we find him in the beginning of the career now culminating. With other Bostonians, John S Eldredge, Josiah Bardwell and Gen. Whitney among others, he surprised New York on a fine morning in 1867 by capturing the Erie railroad. Two objects were in view, a grand stock speculation, and a loan of its credit to the Hartford and Erie railroad, in which Eldredge and other Bostonians were greatly interested—this accomplished, after the fight with Vanderbilt, most of the Boston party went out, though Eldredge is supposed to have had large interests with Fisk in his recent operations. But Fisk remained, and with Mr. Drew, the old Erie manager, has been making a series of grand "corners" in Erie stock and in the money market during the past season. Their audacious schemes and operations have been at the bottom of most of the Wall street disturbances for nearly a year.

Drew and Fisk have now quarreled, the young worldling has learned all the tricks of the old Methodist and invented some new ones, and no longer needs either his counsel or his credit. The principal means for their speculations have been the issue of new stock of the Erie railroad, and locking up currency. English capitalists have been in league with them in one or both of these performances, and twice, thrice, half a dozen times, perhaps, they have thus controlled and swept the market, running all who were bold enough or weak enough to stand in their way, and putting fabulous profits into their own pockets. But Fisk has probably destroyed the credit of the railroad while piling up a fortune for himself. The multiplication of its stock has been fearful: from thirty millions of nominal capital a year ago it has now been raised to sixty or seventy millions, and what there is to show for the difference beyond some worth less securities of the Hartford and Erie road and a million or two of real estate it is now impossible to say. The issue of new shares seems to have been wanton, and with no purpose in great part, but to gamble in Wall street with. Nothing so audacious, nothing more gigantic in the way of real swindling has ever been perpetrated in this country, and yet it may be that Mr. Fisk and his associates have done nothing that they cannot legally justify, at least in the New York courts, several of which they seem wholly to own. Fisk's operations are said to be under the legal guidance of both David Dudley Field and Charles O'Connor, and now both Judge Barnard of the state and Judge Blatchford of the United States Court back up and help on his proceedings.

Mr. Fisk married a handsome Springfield girl, Miss Lucy D. Moore, 12 or 13 years ago, and has a fine residence in Franklin square, Boston, but he also owns houses and a home in New York and deals with life everywhere on a magnificent scale. What will come of him and his operations remains to be seen. The Erie railroad complications must apparently have an early issue. As an instrument of travel and commerce it aims to [illegible] remain the football of gamblers, the prey of speculators. The value of its shares is probably gone, but its rails, its [illegible] [illegible] must be of value and of use. [illegible] of the hour stands in a precarious position, but his great capacity, now great wealth, certainly great notoriety, all these he can make most useful to himself and to his country; it is a pity they should be wasted in destruction [illegible] character and of values when the [illegible] he [illegible] and will reward them so generously in measures of construction. Many even of his friends predict for him the state prison or the lunatic asylum. His father is already in the latter, but we shall hope [illegible] that [illegible] will escape them both, and win a more honorable fame than now gathers over him.

Nineteenth Volume!

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST but to every thing of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.
